WARDING FAVORS SALES TAX TO PAY BONUS

AYS SUCH A PLAN DISTRIBUTES
COST OF REWARDING EX-SERVICE MEN SO THAT ALL WILL BEAR IT

MAKES STAND KNOWN IN A LETTER TO REP. FORDNEY, COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN.

HAS STUDIED EVERY PLAN SUGGESTED;
ARE NOT FEASIBLE

SALES TAX WON'T PAY THE BONUS,
THEN IT SHOULD BE POSTPONED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—President Harding favors the imposition of a sales tax to pay a soldier's bonus. The administration's decision was made known to Congress in a letter addressed today to Representative Fordney (R.) of Michigan, chairman of the House ways and means committee.

In his letter the president told Congress that if the sales tax could not be enacted to finance cash payments to veterans of the world war, that the bonus bill should be postponed.

"Let me repeat," the president said, "that I believe American people will accept the levy of a general sales tax to meet the proposed bonus payment."

He concluded: "If Congress with not adopt such a plan, it would be wise to let the legislation go over until there is a situation which will justify the large outlay."

The president called attention to the fact that the government is spending $200,000,000 a year for the relief of disabled veterans and assured Senator Fordney that "such delay (in the bonus) as will enable Congress to act in prudence for the coming year, will have no suggestion of unkindness or ingratitude."

Immediate abandonment of the eight point special plan proposed by the house ways and means committee to meet bonus payments was expected to be the first result of today's announcement of the administration's policy with regard to the bonus.

Efforts may still be made to force through a bond issue, a substitute for the house tax program, but administration forces led by Senator Simon (D.) of Utah, the original sponsor of the sales tax, are expected to line up enough forces to put through the president's recommendations.

No sufficient votes cannot be found in enough states to pass a sales tax in connection with the house bill, it is probable that the compensation measure will be shelved indefinitely, but not without a hard fight by its supporters in both houses.

The text of President Harding's letter follows:

"My dear Mr. Fordney:
In accordance with the promise to you and your associates on the Senate and House committees, charged with the responsibility of formulating the proposed bonus legislation, I have carefully looked into the program of taxation which has been suggested. In addition thereto, I have made inquiry into the feasibility of making either short term treasury notes or long term bonds to meet the financial obligations which the proposed legislation will impose. It is not possible to comment to you either of the plans suggested.

"It continues to be my best judgment that any compensation legislation enacted at this time ought to carry with it the provision for raising the needed revenues, and I find myself unable to suggest any compensation plan other than that of a general sales tax. Such a tax will distribute the cost of rewarding the ex-service men in such a manner that it will be borne by all the people whom they served and does not commit the government to class imposition of taxes or the resumption of the burden of maintaining the maintenance of which can be justified only by a great war emergency."

"It is fully realized how great is the difficulty which confronts the Congress in solving this difficult problem. I am aware of the strong sentiment in Congress in favor of this adjusted compensation. I have spoken accordingly myself, always with the reservation that the legislation shall be made when it may be done without such injury to the country as will nullify the benefits to the ex-service men themselves which this expression of gratitude is designed to bestow."

"It is not an agreeable thing to suggest that action be postponed again, but frankly, I do not find myself to be willing to the piecemeal payment

INVESTIGATION OF FORD OFFER OPENS IN SENATE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The Senate's investigation of Henry Ford's offer to lease Muscle Shoals opened today when a delegation from Tennessee appeared before the Senate congressional committee to urge its acceptance.

Governor Taylor of Tennessee, heading the delegation, declared that Ford's project would be the "greatest boom" to business in the history of the South.

"Two wars in which the North and South fought side by side have wiped out all prejudices," said Taylor. "That's why Henry Ford is wanted at Muscle Shoals; he is an honest man. He wants to do something for his country. He doesn't want to, make money; he has too much now. He told me so himself and I believe him."

SECRET QUIZ OF A DOZEN
FILM STARS WILL BE CONTINUED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—Probable questioning of Mabel Normand in connection with the Taylor estate still missing.

Continuation of a secret quiz of a dozen film personages in the hope that the collated information secured from all may shed light on the mystery.

These were the other activities under way today as officials entered their third week of endeavor to pierce the black curtain of mystery surrounding the slaying of the famous film director.

Questioning of Mrs. Normand was to be deferred until she has recovered from her illness which is causing her friends much concern.

She is to be questioned this time by representatives of the sheriff's office, who desire to clear up a number of points raised through comment of William Davis, Miss Normand's chauffeur, of his recollection of events of the night of February 1, when the film star visited the Taylor home a few minutes before his death.

According to Deputy Sheriff Davis he cleared the time of the departure for the Normand car after Taylor had escorted Miss Normand to the curb at 7:40. This was the first time this had been brought out.

Officials working on the case were inclined to place little confidence in a report that a threatening missive had been found. District Attorney Woodruff said he had seen no such document. According to this story, the letter was written by a man who had been identified as a slacker by Taylor's chauffeur under this, the man was said to have sworn to get even with the film director.

According to this story, the letter was written by a man who had been identified as a slacker by Taylor's chauffeur under this, the man was said to have sworn to get even with the film director.

Assistant Attorney General Woodruff and his investigating agents made inquiries today Taylor's former chauffeur, Thomas, who gave a written statement to Mrs. J. M. Beeson, news tax expert, officials are convinced that Taylor expected to pay a heavy tax on returns from a considerable amount of oil stock and cash. And the oil stock and cash are the only tax he gave to the government of which he is being investigated.

That Taylor had an undivided interest in the oil stock is

2. That he was a victim of a black mailer who having received his demands from Taylor killed him.

3. That Taylor was killed with the intent of robbery by some one who knew of the existence of oil stock and cash and who failed to call the police in order to obtain payment of the oil stock and cash.

Deputy Attorney Woodruff, in his opinion is proceeding along the lines of "under cover." His agents are also investigating this person and others at their homes and in their employment from the Hall of Justice. These agents are reduced to writing and bringing to the district attorney, who has been especially directed on this investigation.

Resignation from Madison Square Garden Denied
By Fight Promoter

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Tex Rickard, most spectacular promoter of the world of sport has ever known, who thought in millions and whose every move has been attended with success, appeared before the criminal branch of the supreme court this afternoon and pleaded not guilty to charges of assault and rape.

He was accompanied into court by his Counsel, Max D. Steuer and Hyman Bushel, and by several friends.

"I won't say anything at this time," Rickard said. "I will make my answer at the proper time."

The charges were brought by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, on behalf of two fifteen year old girls, Sarah Schoenfeld and Alice Rock.

Magistrate Simpson fixed Rickard's bond at $10,000. In West 3d. court Saturday and this bond was confirmed by consent of Assistant District Attorney John F. O'Neil. Rickard was given one week in which to withdraw his plan of making such motion as he could make.

In the evening, Rickard denied the published report that he had resigned as president of Madison Square Garden.

"Do you intend resigning?" he was asked.

The promoter refused to answer the question.

The returning of judgments was called by his legal advice. Report by less than an hour. He received a telephone notification of the judgments and hastened to the court.

The offenses are alleged to have taken place in a rooming house in West 47th street. Rickard responded that he visited an apartment there with Rickard and that they had not been at various times in Madison Square Garden.

The Rock girl admitted having visited him in the tower of the Garden, where the promoter maintains an apartment.

The stories of the two girls were supported by testimony of Anna Hess, a 11 year old chum, who said she had visited Madison Square Garden swimming pool many times and met Rickard there. She also testified to having seen the Rock girl and Rickard together in the tower apartment.

Quimby Melton, Jr., is latest arrival.

The editor of the Daily News takes great pleasure in announcing today the receipt of important information to the effect that Quimby Melton, Jr., had arrived in Jacksonville, as a result of which there is great rejoicing in the Melton household and much confusion and many mixed heads on the Florida Metropolis, of which the proud father, Major Quimby Melton, Sr., is the general manager.

The momentous event occurred last Sunday night, and the editor of the Daily News takes this opportunity of advising all concerned that if the younger Melton inherits any of the attributes and qualifications of his worthy sire, a place will be gladly saved for him on the staff of this paper.

WANTED—BUSINESS MEN FOR COMMISSION BOARD.

Daytona will, after next month, be governed by a city manager and a board of seven commissioners elected from the city at large. The success of the election to adopt the new charter was a matter of congratulation, affording as it does, an opportunity for the best method of city government.

But its operation depends to a great extent upon the personnel of the board of commissioners, who will select a manager and who will have direct charge of his management. While the duties of the office of commissioner will be light, its importance cannot be slighted.

Therefore, Daytona is at present facing a situation on which much of the success or failure of city managerial form hangs—the willingness of influential, prominent business men and women to serve on the board. Several who have been suggested have found it impossible to serve. The need for a strong, fair and impartial board is paramount at this time.

The plea is made that all business men and women who are asked to become candidates for the board put aside personal feeling, an excuse of lack of time or business pressure, and accept the nomination, that Daytona city government may be made the greatest success.

The duties involved in the position are slight. One or two meetings a week, an advisory to the city manager, is all the time which will be needed to devote to the position. It is ability, rather than time, which is needed in the make-up of the board of commissioners under city managerial form.

The success of the city depends largely upon the success of its management. The success of its management depends to a great extent upon the membership of the board. Everyone who has the best interest of the city at heart, who wants to see Daytona climb upward to its rightful station in municipal affairs, will find this desire far outbalancing the inconvenience of attending meetings, or devoting the small amount of time necessary to the work.

The call is urgent. If you are asked to stand for office, do not decline. If your friend is invited to become a member of the board put your shoulder to the wheel and help boost Daytona into a high position among Florida cities, by urging that they accept.

Much is at stake. Daytona cannot fail in this.

New York club women are debating whether a dog or a cow is man's best friend. Did you ever see a cow rush out to meet a man coming from work?

CHAPTER I.

Streaks of red ran upward, and in answer the great gray eye of the wilderness lifted its mist-fringed lid. From the green depths came the flitting of a lone wood thrush. Through them an owl flew on velvety wings for his home in the heart of the royal poplar.

In the depths a boy with a bow and arrow and naked, except for scalp-lock and breech-clout, sprang from sleep and again took flight along a buffalo trail. Not far behind him three grunting savages were taking up the print of his moccasined feet.

An hour before a red flare rose within the stalked enclosure that was reared in the center of a little clearing. Before the first glimmer of day the gates yawned a little and three dim shapes moved leisurely for the woods—each man with a long flintlock rifle in the hollow of his arm, a hunting knife in his belt and a coon skin cap on his head.

At either end of the stockade a watchtower of oak became visible and in each a sleepy sentinel yawned and snifited the welcome smell of frying venison below him.

A girl climbing the rude ladder to the tower stopped midway.

"Morning, Dave!"
"Morning, Polly!"

"I was comin' to wake you up," she smiled.

"I just waked up," he yawned, but morning the jest.

"Lyddy!" cried Polly, "bring Dave's breakfast!"

At the fire a tall girl rose, pushed a mass of sunburned hair from her heated forehead, and a flush not from the fire fused with her smile.

"I reckon Dave can walk this far; he don't look very puny."

A voice vibrant with sarcasm rose from one of the women about the steaming kettle.

"Honor!" she cried. "Honor San-der!"

In a doorway near, a third girl was dozy-eyed, dozy-breasted.

"Honor!" cried the old woman. "Stop wastin' you time with that wanerin' in thar an' come out here an' help these two gals to git Dave his breakfast." Dave Yandell laughed loudly.

Cowbells began to clang at the edge of the forest.

"There they are!" cried Polly. "Come on, Lyddy."

The two girls picked up piggins and squeezed through the opening between the heavy gates. The young hunter entered a door and within threw himself across a rude bed, face down.

"Honor!" cried one of the old women, "you go an' git a bucket of water!"

A few minutes later she was at the spring and ladling water into her pail with a gourd.

Honor dipped lazily.

"Boo!" cried Polly, starting her, and then tenderly:

"Are you in love with Dave, too, Honor?"

The girl reddened.

As Honor turned abruptly for the door, a shot came from the woods followed by a warwhoop that stopped the blood chattering in their veins.

"Oh, my God!" each cried, and clutching at their wet skirts they fled in terror through the long grass.

They heard the quick command in the foot—several sharp commands, cries of warning, frantic calls for them to hunker, as strained faces at the gates, saw Dave bound through and rush toward them.

"Git in—git in—git in quickie!"

From a watchtower, too, a rifle had cracked. A naked savage had bounded into a spot of sunlight that uncurled on the batture and a hundred yards deep in the forest and leaped blithely aside into the bushes.

"Both rifles had missed."

From the tower, old Jerome saw results begin to stalk in a clamorous way to the left of the village.

"Look that!" he called, and three others with his own covered the spot.

A small broad arm was thrust above the shaking head, with the palm of the hand toward the back—the peace sign of the Indian.

A moment later a muffled cry sprang from the cane-brake and ran toward the blockhouse, with a low and at first silent and then loud panting shrilling, wild-eyed.

The arrow had grazed his skin, and when Dave lifted his arm and looked at the oozing drops of blood he gave a startled oath, for he saw a flash of white under the loosened breech-clout below. The boy understood. Quickly he pushed the clout aside on his thigh that all might see, nodded gravely and proudly tapped his breast.

"Paleface!" he half grunted, "white man!"

The wilds were quiet. The boy pointed to them and held up three fingers to indicate that there were only three red men there, and shook his head to say there would be no attack from them.

"What's your name?" The boy shook his head and looked eagerly around.

"Francis—French?" he asked, as he saw a gigantic Indian brandishing his rifle at the edge of the woods, encouraging his companions behind, and each time he grunted and begged for a gun.

Dave made out that the Indian was the one who had treated the boy kindly and that the last was after a personal revenge.

A last yell was made just before sunset. A body pushed against Dave in the tower and Dave saw the stranger boy at his side with his bow and arrow. The first time they had allowed the boy to go on a war-party. Some one had treated him badly.

As he pointed to his breech-clout, the boy said, "I'm gonna git you out of that!"

A moment later a muffled cry sprang from the cane-brake and ran toward the blockhouse, with a low and at first silent and then loud panting shrilling, wild-eyed.

The arrow had grazed his skin, and started him wide awake. Then there was the noiseless awakening of the household, noiseless dressing of the children—the mere whisper of "Indians" was enough to keep them quiet—and the noiseless slipping through the wilderness for the oak picketed stockade.

And the gathering-in was none too soon. The hooting of owls started before dawn. A flaming arrow hissed from the woods, thudded into the roof of one of the cabins, sputtered feebly on a dew-drenched ridgepole, and went out. Savages warwhoops rent the air, and the battle was on. All day the fight went on.

The stranger boy sat steadily in the center of the enclosure watching everything, and making no effort to take part, except twice when he saw a gigantic Indian brandishing his rifle at the edge of the woods, encouraging his companions behind, and each time he grunted and begged for a gun.

As he pointed to his breech-clout, the boy said, "I'm gonna git you out of that!"

Sousa and His Band Sig Haugdahl Will Delight Two Large Auditorium Crowds on Daytona Beach

Sousa, the March King of the world and his musical artists delighted two large audiences at the Auditorium Wednesday, playing to near capacity houses at both performances, bringing to a realization the reputation which he has borne for a score of years or more as the leader of the world's great band. Many who had heard Sousa in past years joined those who were given their first opportunity of enjoying the highest class of band music and agreeing that the concerts given yesterday were by far the greatest which the Auditorium management has brought to the Triple Cities.

The masterful hand of the greater leader was everywhere evident, as composer of many of the scores played, and as director of the artists, many of whom stand at the head of their respective class. At both concerts no small amount of praise was awarded to the soloists, who were on a par with the excellence of the band itself.

His audiences were deeply impressed with the harmony which the band of nearly 100 pieces brought forth, stirred to the depths by the patriotic march music which has made the tender famous the world over, and deeply touched by the renditions of the vocal and violin solos, as well as by the cembalo and xylophone soloists, all of whom were forced to respond to many encores before the audience was satisfied to let the program continue.

With perfect balance the program was one which could not fail but delight everyone present. John Wilson, who bears the reputation of being the second best cornetist in the world brought forth enticing tones in his "Carnival of Venice" and with the several encores which followed, Miss Baker, following "The Wives," endeared herself to her hearers by singing "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" which was one of the most enjoyed numbers of the evening.

Miss Florence Bradman, violin soloist delighted her listeners with "Two Movements from Concerto in F sharp minor," and added two encores in response to the appreciation of the audience.

George Carey, on the xylophone proved a most master of this intricate musical instrument having to respond many times to encores. Miss W. Hambrick, harpist, also proved her ability as accompanist to the other artists.

Each number by the band or soloists was a master piece, leaving little to desire when the evening's concert was brought to a close. Hundreds of school children were present at the matinee, much appreciating the concert.

The appearance of Sousa and his band marks the close of the artists' assembly of the year, in addition to the assembly course and Forum will be held in May.

nday Auction
ale at Seabreeze
of Great Interest

The auction sale to be held Saturday, February 18, at 9:30 at Seabreeze Park, is one of more than usual importance. This sale is a continuation of the auction held by the W. P. Print company on January 11. The Print company's auction was a marked success in every respect, but the unfavorable weather attracted many interested people attending. Hence this continuing sale will be held, and this time is of much more importance for the reason that the Central Construction company have entered five hundred houses and several building lots in the sale, thereby making it a much larger and more important sale at this time.

Seabreeze Park is one of the finest locations in all Florida, and one may easily say in all the world. It parallels the beautiful St. Johns river and is situated just before the mouth of the ocean. It is quiet and restful, but, best of all, it is beautiful and refined. It is a site to increase many times in value as time goes by.

Important development work is going on in this locality, and many modern dwellings are being erected at present time, thus making a most pleasing addition to the many beautiful homes of wealthy residents already there. It is a certainty that Seabreeze Park is the fastest growing section of the Triple Cities. The Central Construction company, which is spending vast sums in building and developing this locality, is under the direction of G. C. Hinson, who has had large experience in construction and development work in design and vicinity, and who is therefore an expert in matters pertaining to the betterment of any community.

The auctioneer in charge of this is J. J. Owen, formerly of Roanoke, Va., and Dayton, Ohio, but now numbered as a permanent resident of Daytona. Mr. Owen has the reputation of putting one and interest into auctions, and his experience is an assurance that the present sale will be conducted efficiently.

A hand contest, much agreed upon drawings for cash prizes are features which the public should not miss.

Also, one building lot in going the given away absolutely free. Those who are invited to attend this interesting and important event.

Many Interested in Bible Conference

The sessions of the last year Bible conference being held in Daytona for the auspices of the First Baptist church are creatures of interest on the part of many who are interested in Bible study and a larger understanding of the word of God. Daytona's ecclesiastical activities on Sunday afternoons and evening study meetings were present at both sessions.

In the afternoon, Dr. Tucker continued his lectures on the book of Genesis. He will speak again this afternoon at 7:30 and tonight at 7:30. The lecture on tonight will deal with some of the modern "new" authors. It will be a very interesting lecture to those who are less leaning toward fundamental Christian doctrine. Those interested in the others of their religious faith.

The Band of the 10th Cavalry will be given in conjunction with the presentation of the 17th and 18th Cavalry bands to the visitors of the county contest which has been in progress during the past year.

Field Engineers of A. A. A. Logging Route Down Coast

R. V. Goodson and Robert N. Hill, field engineers of the American Automobile Association arrived in Daytona at 2 o'clock Thursday morning. These men are going full speed ahead to comply with the request of the State Road department for data to be used in coming down with the new road map. They have completed logging and mapping in Georgia and will spend about two weeks in Florida collecting material so they may have the map in readiness before the tourists begin to return north. This will also be a great advantage to all the motor clubs in Florida.

Engineer Hill has requested that the Daytona Motor club decide upon a name for the leg of road connecting the Leon-Jackson road and the Dixie Highway. This stretch of road extends from Daytona to Polkland. Mr. Hill is well known in Daytona and is enthusiastic over the organization of a club in this vicinity.

Field Secretary O'Connor left Daytona this morning for Lakeland where he will hold a road meeting with the Polk County club. He will return to this city in about three weeks. In the meantime he will have organized clubs in Clearwater, Ocala and other points in the state.

All persons firms or corporations in Daytona and vicinity who are displaying on cars, walls or other places emblems, signs, flags and other means of the American Automobile Association or the Florida State Automobile Association are requested by Mr. Connor to remove them at once as the continuation of Daytona is almost over.

Many matters regarding the future of the Daytona Motor club were discussed at a meeting of Presidents, Presidents, Vice Presidents, etc., of the various clubs in the state, held Saturday evening.

Mrs. Mandie Ober of Chicago, Ill., who has been visiting the various resorts of the state, has arrived at Daytona Beach, where she plans to spend some time before returning north.

Mrs. R. D. Turbore, who has been visiting friends in Jacksonville, left this morning for Crescent City where she will join her father, James W. Turbore, for three weeks before returning to her home in Pawling, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Doherty of Massapequa, Long Island, N. Y., have recently spent time in Daytona, Florida, and are now returning to their home in New York. They will be back in Daytona Saturday afternoon.

Mr. A. H. Hayes, who has been visiting the various resorts of the state, has just returned to his home in New York. He is now spending his time in New York, where he is engaged in a business venture, returning to his home in the State of Florida.

Impressive Service Bible Conference Wednesday Night

Last evening at the session of the East Coast Bible conference being held in the First Baptist church, a most impressive service was held. It was the occasion of the lecture of Dr. W. Leon Tucker, of New York, on the book of Colossians. This was the second one of the series on this most remarkable book of the New Testament.

Few people seem to realize how much there is in this short book of only four chapters, and yet there is a wealth of teaching that is most wonderful and in the hands of such a teacher as Dr. Tucker it is wonderful to see the unfolding of the book.

The larger part of the lecture was given to the consideration of the personality of God as revealed in the entire. The whole lecture was a wonderful illustration of the far-reaching scope of a few words as written in the Book of Books under the inspiration of the Spirit of God. The speaker showed how such God could pack into a few words for the instruction of His people about Himself and the universe of Eternity in the earth in speaking of the personality of God, the speaker went on to say that Jesus was the manifestation of the personality of God. Here he quoted Colossians chapter 1, verse 15, which reads, "Who is the image of the invisible God, who is the firstborn of the creation." In speaking of the personality of God, the speaker went on to say that Jesus was the manifestation of the personality of God. Here he quoted Colossians chapter 1, verse 15, which reads, "Who is the image of the invisible God, who is the firstborn of the creation." In speaking of the personality of God, the speaker went on to say that Jesus was the manifestation of the personality of God. HOTEL ORMOND

The Hotel Ormond team went down to their first defeat of the season Wednesday, when the Ormond Vikings took their measure in a hard fought game by a score of 8 to 6, and at the same time spoiling their injured feelings for the defeat they suffered last Wednesday when the hotel team grabbed the game from them at the eleventh hour.

They held a comfortable lead nearly all the way by the aid of costly errors on the part of the hotel nine, however, they deserved to win the game. Their fielding was gilt edged at all times and their base running was better, which is more important. Holmes featured for his team, although easily rated as managed to pull through in good shape.

The hotel then showed their fight and spirit in the last two innings, just as they did in the previous game, by getting to Holmes for six runs. Date for the hotel nine led at the bat with three hits and Stevens, in center field, was the star of the game with several beautiful catches. McNulty was on the slab for the hotel team and worked hard throughout the game.

The team will play the third game of the series Saturday, February 18, and is sure to bring out a large and enthusiastic crowd.

The score:

Ormond Village 610 020 102 — 8 12
